The diagram provides information regarding a variety of categories citizens spent money on in five nations in 2002. It is plain to see that people spent the most on food, drinks and tobacco, whereas people consumed the least for leisure and education.

In more detail, the largest amount—highest proportion of spending that by people spent in the five nations was for food, drinks and tobacco. Consumer spending on food, drinks and tobacco was higher in Turkey, at 32.14 per cent and in Ireland, at 28.91 per cent. On the other hand, people in Sweden spent the least on this category, at 15.77 per cent.

Of with regards to clothing and footwear, Italy had the largest proportion on the table. Nine per cent of expenditure in Italy compared to 5.40 per cent of that in Sweden, which was the lowest.

In the leisure and education category, people in each every nation consumed the least on this. Turkey had the largest of proportion of national consumer expenditure on this, with 4.35 per cent of total spending, while the figure for Spain was only approximately 2 per cent.

Comment [1]: You always need the for superlatives [the most, the highest, lowest]
Comment [2]: you should rephrase keywords more
Comment [3]: use amount for uncountable nouns, but not for percentages. “The amount of water used was 2lires”
Comment [4]: approximately 15% [this task gives very precise numbers to test whether you can give approximate numbers]
Comment [5]: don't start a sentence with a budget
Comment [6]: new category = new paragraph
Comment [7]: this is VITAL! We do not know the actual amounts only the percentages, you don’t want to make it sound like they spend more ($) because we don’t know this. We only know the percentage was higher Comment [8]: yes good you should have done this more!
Excellent overall summary

The most important data seems to be covered

Be careful that it is clear you are talking about percentages and not numbers “spent more” should be stated as “spent a high proportion”

I would like to see more approximate numbers given

Also you should try to combine data more. For instance,

You wrote
Consumer spending on food, drinks and tobacco was higher in Turkey, at 32.14 per cent and in Ireland, at 28.91 per cent.

I would write
Consumer spending on food, drinks and tobacco was higher in Turkey, and Ireland, at about 30%. [It also uses less words, so you can describe the data more]

Paragraph 3 start with something like “With regards to…” To guide the reader

Each category should be in its own paragraph

Rephrase more:
food, drinks and tobacco = food beverages and cigarettes
clothing and footwear = clothes and shoes
leisure and education = recreation and learning

This is a reasonable result, as it only accounts for one third of your grade. Still, try to learn from your mistakes and advance to 7!
